President's Message

Dr. Jim Carlson

Let me introduce myself to those who may not know me. I am Jim Carlson. I arrived in Rocklin in 1985 and have been in business here for 25 years. I joined the Historical Society when it was founded by Roy Ruhkala and the late Marie Huson. I served as President of the Rocklin Friends of the Library in the early 90's and as President of the Rocklin Historical Society at the turn of the century when our Rocklin History Museum building was acquired. I have been a member of the Rocklin Chamber of Commerce for 25 years and a proud member of Rocklin Kiwanis for the last ten.

I will be taking office at a very desirable time. St. Mary's Chapel has been renovated and is operational. This herculean 4-year task was led by Roger Lokey with the cooperation of 100's. I picture the aerial photo of the crowds who gathered on Front Street to pull the 122 year old building down the street to its new home. We are grateful to our city leaders for their support of this community effort. With the Chapel and Museum smoothly running, it is my hope that we can take a breath and enjoy the fruits of our labor by bringing others into our group and increasing community use of these facilities. I have 3 goals for 2010 --increase

KNOW YOUR DOCENTS

Gay Morgan

Ruth Ruhkala Williams is a Rocklin History Museum treasure. She is the fourth daughter and the eighth child in a family of eleven children of Finnish immigrants Matt and Eva Ruhkala. Ruth grew up in Rocklin and knows a lot of the unwritten as well as the written history of the town and its quarries.

She attended the Rocklin Grammar School on Pacific Street. As she recalls there was no playground equipment or basketball courts. There were a couple of swings and girls played hopscotch. Both boys and girls played baseball.

Ruth Ruhkala Williams

Rocklin students attended Roseville High School at that time. There were no buses and some rode the train but Ruth and her sister Betty drove to school in the family's Essex.

After graduating from High School she attended the University of California at Berkeley. However, before graduating she was offered and took a job at the Chamberlin Law Firm in Auburn.

Ruth met her husband to be when she went to investigate who owned that cute convertible.

The owner was James Williams, a native of Loomis, who also owned the local Lumber Company. He was helping Ruben and Marge Ruhkala plan their house.

They were married in 1939 and had four children. Now there are seven grandchildren and twelve great grandchildren.

Later Ruth worked at the State capitol for twenty years.

Her hobbies include golf and bridge.

This delightful, gracious, soft-spoken lady volunteers as a docent at the Rocklin History Museum one day a month. She also tells the third graders who visit about the quarries and growing up in Rocklin. She definitely is our local treasure.

Maidu first used the rock grinding acorns for boiling pots.
Next came '49er hoards blasting rock, killing stock washing gravel in a rocker box.

Finns, Irish, Spanish and Chinese too, Found the rock went through and through.

Quarry upon quarry began going deep

As Sacramento grew street by street.

Now the 'Big Four' opened the door
With rail and tie from shore to shore.
Granite from Rocklin began to pour, out of each hole in the ground, as if forever more!

The Irish named it for a 'spring'
The Finnish worked and split,
as if for God and King.

Now the new ones barely know, the sweat and blood of each that gave or even the location of J. Parker Whitney's pyramid grave!

DOCENTS ARE NEEDED

Barbara Chapman
Docent Chairperson

Our history museum seeks to assist visitors in understanding how things were in Rocklin years ago. Real people lived here and we display and share information today that helps visitors envision their lives through photographs and objects we have on display. This history of things fills our rooms, but does it achieve the desired results – telling Rocklin's story? Each of YOU does that when you share our history with visitors.

New quarterly calendars have been mailed – there are several openings to volunteer your time working with other docents to present ourselves and our history. Please consider helping out one additional day once in a while to ensure we can be open. Call the assigned docent and let him or her know you will be coming in to work with them so they won't be alone.
New Opening and Closing Procedures are posted on the bulletin board. Please take the time to review them and let me know if you see areas in need of correction or further explanation. These procedures are meant to clarify the process for you as needed. I have also posted the Weekly Schedule for 2010 with phone numbers and e-mail addresses.
Please review your name and information and notify me of any corrections.

As always, your help is needed and appreciated

GARDEN CHATTER

Sally Huseby
Garden Committee Chairperson
(916) 315-8401

In November additional contributions to the Chapel Donation garden were gladly picked up to plant. Through the fall season we have received Siberian iris, narcissus, Shasta daisies, yellow cannas, day lilies and Matilija poppy. Also a variety of bearded iris.
My thanks go to Lila Sasaki, Jean Sippola, Edie Boyd and Janet Currier for their donations of a variety of beautiful plants. Keith Huseby spread bark

throughout the area to prevent weeds and placed stepping stones
so that you can walk through the garden to view the growing flowerbed. Come spring the efforts of our work should be very attractive. You can always call me if you have any plants to donate. I am also very grateful for the help of Ellen Griggs for her help planting the garden. We always need more worker bees.

Ilona Osella's memories of Rocklin

Gary Day

Based on an interview by Alfred Corral

Rocklin's Granite industry flourished in late 19th and early 20th centuries. But competition from cement-based concrete and labor strife in the quarries in 1915 attenuated the production of granite products and depopulated Rocklin by 35 percent between 1910 and 1920.

However, Finnish immigrant Victor Wickman persevered in the business, operating a successful quarry in Rocklin until the early 1940s.

On November 9, 2009 Rocklin historian Alfred Corral interviewed Victor's daughter, ninety-two year old Ilona Osella about her life growing up in early 20th century Rocklin.

My father, Victor Wickman, emigrated from Finland in 1901, following his older brother Anders Wickman who had emigrated here in the late 1880s. Anders had Americanized the family name to "Wickman" when he saw that the immigration clerk couldn't pronounce Ylilammi, Anders' Finnish family name.

My father bought our house on High Street in 1906 from an Irish family.

Most of Rocklin's early quarrymen were Irish. I was born in that house in 1917. I am the youngest of my parents' six children. I still live on the property.

My mother, Margagreta Otilia Wickman, came from Finland, unmarried, at the turn of the century intending to live in Rocklin with her sister. She was disoriented as she left the train here so a patron of one of Rocklin's many saloons escorted my mother to her sister's house.

The early immigrant Finns spoke Finnish at home, but their children spoke English at school and a combination language called Finniska evolved. Finnish and Finniska are seldom heard among Rocklin's Finnish descendants nowadays. I learned from my father to write in Finnish so I could communicate by mail with my grandmother in Finland. She lived to be 100.

My father's quarry was Rocklin's deepest.

It produced granite for buildings in San Francisco and Sacramento. As construction projects dried up it produced riprap for reclamation projects and gravestones for shipment to Nevada and Sacramento. During high school I worked as a secretary for that quarry while the men made granite blocks for construction of the Main Post Office in Sacramento.

Victor Wickman's Quarry ca. 1912. Victor is second from left in the dark vest. Victor's brother Anders is at the right rear. Multiple quarry owner Matt Ruhkala is at the far right. Anders Wickman owned the ranch at the west end of Rocklin Road that later became Johnson Springview Park

At Christmas our family stacked presents around a Christmas tree lit by candles. Finn families gathered at Finn Hall during the Christmas season where Santa passed out gifts including candy and fresh oranges and apples.

Moon's Grocery Store was in today's granite city-hall building. My mother often sent me there for a dime's worth of bologna. Adolf Moon knew me as Ilona Bologna.

I attended Rocklin Grade School on Pacific Street. The Finns and the Spanish and the Japanese families associated mainly among themselves but we mixed at school and became good friends. I and twelve classmates graduated eighth grade in a ceremony at Finn hall in 1930.

I rode the train to Roseville High School but most kids were poor and had to bum rides. Few kids could afford school clothes during the early years of the Great Depression so we wore black and white uniforms. On Saturday nights we danced the Schottische and the Polka at Finn Hall until 11 pm, and then we headed for Allen's Dance Hall near Folsom where we danced until 3 am. After a few hours sleep and church on Sunday morning we went to Rattlesnake Bar where we swam all day. I don't remember any of the kids drinking alcohol during our high school years.

I met my husband, Pete, at Rocklin's roller skating rink on Pacific Street. He became a seventeen-cents per hour railroad apprentice so we were able to travel by train for free to the 1939 World's Fair in San Francisco. We married in 1941 before the war started. We have three children.

Nick Alexson was once my father's business partner. He fell to his death in 1927 while clearing brush from the quarry's edge.

My father died in 1954 at age 76. His lungs were clogged with granite dust.

My best friend at work in downtown Sacramento in 1941 was Japanese. She cried with me when bad news came from Hawaii on December 7th. I never saw her again after that day.

Here is an opportunity to volunteer

Your Rocklin History Museum needs a coordinator to work about 4 hours per week, preferably on Mondays:

- Maintaining the museum's artifact inventory
- Identifying maintenance and repair needs and
- Identifying enhancements to the museum's displays.

membership, increase visitors, and participation at the museum and chapel, and then pass along leadership of this group to new faces in 2011. We will want to look for younger families, working folks, and new arrivals who come to our area with impressive backgrounds, skills, energy and time. Any contribution serves our community and generations to come. I hope each of us will reach out to these prospects and invite them in.

2010 ushers in not only a new year but a new decade. It is with this in mind that several in our group have taken on the task of re-visiting our By-laws and standing rules. We have taken the long-view to have these rules hold up for the next ten years and to envision what things will be looking like in another ten years. Happy new year and happy new decade!
